Store Lambs (2934)

MONDAY 3RD NOVEMBER 2025

A sharper trade again this week with lambs continuing to get dearer. Another competitive ringside of buyers ensured that all types sold to advantage, with particular strength seen on the well-bred farming lambs which proved the dearest on the day.

With confidence in the spring trade underpinning demand, the longer-term farming types were highly sought after and consistently achieved premiums over the short keep sorts. The recent late grass growth is also a factor, with buyers wanting the stronger framed lambs to take forward and utilise the fresh bite that has finally come in many areas. Well grown Texel and Continental cross lambs attracted the strongest bidding, pushing averages forward on the week. Native and hill lambs also sold well, reflecting the general lift in values. Overall, an animated trade throughout, with the outlook remaining firm as buyers continue to compete hard for numbers tightening towards the backend
